

DRAGONFLY PRINT for women's T-shirt

MATERIALS

- white and orange fabric paint, Gütermann
- scalpel or small sharp scissors
- plastic sheeting (e.g. plastic pocket) for template
- spray adhesive, Gold-Zack
- painter's tape
- disposable plate and spoon
- piece of sponge

The T-shirt is pictured in OTTOBRE design® issue 3/2006, page 54. The pattern and sewing instructions for the woman's T-shirt can be found in OTTOBRE woman, issue 2/2006.

Apply the print to the front panel of the T-shirt following the instructions below before assembling the garment.

INSTRUCTIONS

1. Trace motif on plastic sheeting and cut shaded parts of motif out.
2. Spray adhesive on wrong side of template and bond template to front panel. Secure edges of template in place with painter's tape and cover rest of garment piece to protect it from paint splashes.
3. Pour a small amount of paint on disposable plate and dab sponge in it so that paint gets evenly distributed on sponge.
4. Dab a small amount of paint at a time in openings on template with sponge. Dab the entire motif first lightly with white paint so that color of fabric is slightly visible through paint. Then dab more white paint in the middle of motif to hide fabric color. Finally dab orange paint lightly to tips of wings.
5. Allow print to dry properly and fix it to fabric by pressing, following directions on paint container.
